On Mar. 7 Aim for Success hosted the latest in its monthly family nights — this one at the Drayton Valley Ski Hill. Families came out for an evening of tobogganing and tubing and when the climb up the hill worked up an appetite families were able to gather around the fire for a hot dog and hot chocolate. The event was offered free of charge through Aim for Success. Find Aim for Success at www.aimforsuccess.ca.

Man killed in collision

Western Review Staff

A 42-year-old man was killed when the truck he was driving left the road on Hwy. 753.

Around 7 p.m. on Mar. 6 emergency services, including RCMP, Drayton Valley/Brazeau County Fire Services, Associated Ambulance and a County Peace Officer responded to reports of a single vehicle collision on the highway near the junction of Hwy 753 and Hwy 821.

The RCMP investigation determined that the northbound truck left the road, struck an approach and rolled several times, pinning the driver inside. The 42-year-old man was pronounced dead at the scene. A passenger who had been in the vehicle didn't sustain any serious injuries.

RCMP believe alcohol and driving conditions were contributing factors in the collision.

Drayton Valley RCMP will not be releasing the name of the man.

DRIVERS FEEL IMPACT OF WEATHER

The first week of March brought the return of snow and winter driving conditions, resulting in a number of collisions.

On Mar. 4 emergency services were called to a collision involving a pickup truck and a loaded tanker truck at the intersection of Hwy. 821 and Range Road BL. The tanker truck had been turning off the highway onto the range road when it was rear-ended by the pickup. Drayton Valley RCMP Cpl. Marco Lou said the collision resulted in minor injuries, but no spill of the tanker truck's cargo resulted.

However, as a result of reduced visibility around the collision scene another collision occurred when a car rear-ended a truck.

Lou said RCMP also responded to a number of other weather-related collisions.

BREAK IN AT OILFIELD FACILITY

In the final days of February Drayton Valley RCMP were investigating a break in at an oilfield company battery site. The culprit(s) damaged the door of the facility and stole a number of tools, radios and batteries and self-retracting ladders.

Cpl. Marco Lou noted that those entering facilities illegally and without knowledge of the infrastructure are taking risks. The truck also had a dent on the passenger side of the box.

Trucks aren't the only items attractive to thieves.

On Feb. 28 police received a report that a green 2005 Acura CR-V had been stolen from a locked storage area in the area of Hwy. 821 and Range Road BL.

Local vehicles were once again targets for thieves over the past week and a half.

On Mar. 1 a 2009 blue Dodge Caliber was stolen from the Sobey's parking lot. The vehicle had been left running.

Mar. 1 was not a good day for trucks in the area as RCMP had two separate reports of thefts. A Black 2013 Ford F350 with a black tonneau cover was reported stolen outside a Drayton Valley motor inn. The owner reported that the vehicle was running, but the doors were locked.

That same day police received a report of the theft of a navy blue 2006 Ford F350 with a sticker of a fairy on it, as well as a sticker that says "Old Queen". The truck also had a dent on the passenger side of the box.

An oilfield battery site located past the Brazeau Dam had approximately 1,500 feet of ground cable stolen. The theft was reported to Drayton Valley RCMP on Mar. 3.

NEW FACE ON THE BEAT

Last week the Drayton Valley RCMP welcomed a new member when Capt. Skeppell joined the detachment as a new recruit. The new constable has now started her field training in the area.

Cpl. Marco Lou said the vehicle accessories are relatively easy to remove for thieves and often don't have any identifying markers like serial numbers to help RCMP return them to their rightful owners if they're recovered. Owners are advised to find a way to mark or engrave their light bars to make them identifiable.

VEHICLE SET ABLAZE

Police responded to reports of a vehicle fire on Feb. 28. When officers arrived at the location the vehicle was burning, but no one was around.

CABLE STOLEN

An oilfield battery site located past the Brazeau Dam had approximately 1,500 feet of ground cable stolen. The theft was reported to Drayton Valley RCMP on Mar. 3.

NEW FACE ON THE BEAT

Last week the Drayton Valley RCMP welcomed a new member when Capt. Skeppell joined the detachment as a new recruit. The new constable has now started her field training in the area.

Courtney Whalen Western Review
Amanda Lindhout signs a copy of her book A House in the Sky while mom Lorinda Stewart looks on after the two spoke at a packed house at the Elanor Pickup Arts Centre on Mar. 8. The women were brought to town by the Pembina Crisis Connection Society.

Lindhout shares her story

Courtney Whalen
Western Review

For 15 months Amanda Lindhout was held in captivity, also being kidnapped in Somalia along with a companion Nigel Brennan. She lived through deprivation and abuse at the hands of her young male captives, and her Somali captives. She told her Drayton Valley audience that every day she wakes up and chooses forgiveness over anger and hatred.

Her memoir, A House in the Sky (co-authored with Sam Zarhin), details her experiences during the 15 months she spent in captivity. She and Brennan were kidnapped for ransom while in Somalia with aspirations of documenting stories of those impacted by the country's instability as freelance journalists.

Last Saturday Lindhout and her mother, Lorinda Stewart, were in Drayton Valley on International Women's Day to share their story of that 15 months and beyond. Brought in by the Pembina Crisis Connection Society, it was the first time the two women had shared their unique, yet intertwined experiences, on stage together. While Lindhout has already been sharing her story with the public, it was Stewart's first time telling an audience about the months she worked to secure her daughter's release, starting as the mediator with one of the Somali kidnappers.

While a story of her captivity, the presentation is also about how Lindhout has emerged from her experience, chosen a path of forgiveness (something she admits is an ongoing process), and gone on to create the Global Enrichment Foundation that works, in part, to empower Somali women through educational programs.

Choosing to tell her story late after time to different audiences is something that allows her to talk about the power of compassion and forgiveness, but has also become part of her healing. "There's also something empowering about finding the words to own your own story," said Lindhout.

Despite her experience with public speaking last weekend was a unique experience for her and her mother. "It was really emotional for me, and hearing about my mom's struggle is hard for me," said Lindhout, of her mother's experience working first with RCMP and eventually with a private company and Brennan's family to negotiate with the kidnappers for the release of both captives.

After the presentation Lindhout and Stewart sat to sign copies of Lindhout's book. Many of those who stood in line had additional questions or took the opportunity to share stories or hugs with Lindhout or Stewart.

That connection that started with an audience of strangers through sharing her story is something Lindhout calls a "gift."

"It's actually one of the best things of doing these public events," she said.

Near the end of the presentation Stewart spoke about her own struggle to find her way away from anger. It was a hard journey for her, she admitted, but after this presentation she referred to the brain Tracy Gies that talks about the inability to control what happens to you, but the ability to control how you respond to it — as how she has now chosen to approach it.

Being able to share her story, especially on International Women's Day, is a reminder of the freedom women in Canada enjoy, said Lindhout. And while appreciating that, it's important to also remember the millions of women unable to have their voices heard and struggling to build better lives for themselves.

That's one of the things that she hopes to achieve through the work of the Global Enrichment Foundation and the work it does for women and girls in Somalia.

To find out more about Lindhout and the Global Enrichment Foundation go online to www.globaleenrichmentfoundation.ca

GROWING THE FUTURE

Mackenzie Conference Centre, Drayton Valley

What's Your Emergency? Rural emergencies occur every day—whether it be weeds, pests, natural disasters or a land management issue. This day-long conference will provide you with information on how to manage such emergencies. Whether you are managing a large farming operation or food production in your backyard, this conference will be your friend.

KEYNOTE SPEAKER: Shawn Brook
President, Nature Link - Advocacy in Agriculture

Many people in urban areas don't understand agriculture and how their food is grown. They get easily caught up in the latest trends—100-mile diets, free-range poultry origins—and lose their actions and opinions on what they learn from the general media, which does not always portray agriculture in a factual way. The industry needs to become more active in consumer education and farmers need to speak proudly of what they do, the lives they live, and the way we produce food in Canada.

Group looks to start local treatment facility

Almond Tree Life Centre hopes to offer in-residence programs based on Christian principles

Courtney Whalen
Western Review

After years of working with people who want to overcome their struggles with addiction, Dawn Seely wants to establish a local facility to help them on their journey.

Her vision is to offer treatment for men, women and families at an in-residence facility through programs based on Christian principles. It was an idea that took root after Seely joined a ministry team at the Life Church that works with people wanting to overcome their addictions. About a year and a half ago she was approached by people wondering if they could move in with her to further and their recovery.

That prompted her to move forward with the idea of creating a treatment facility locally.

"There is a great need within our community," she said.

From that the Almond Tree Life Centre was formed. It was Seely's daughter who provided the name for the project, after doing some research and coming across the meaning of the almond tree — a representation of God's discipline, his favour and sudden change.

Finding the meaning appropriate and fitting with the vision for the project, the name was chosen and a board of directors was formed. Seely said bylaws are in the final stages and the board is ready to move the project forward.

"We're in the very early stages of the development of the program," said Seely. Although the board wants to see programs developed using Christian principles, and is registered as a religious society, Seely said that won't preclude people of other backgrounds from accessing the programming.

The goal is to provide people with the tools they need to make the lifestyle changes they want, she said. Although many existing residential treatment programs are offered to men and women separately, the Almond Tree Life Centre would welcome not only men and women, but also families into its facility.

"I want something that has more representation of reality," said Seely, noting that once treatment is complete individuals don't live in isolation, so providing a facility that reflects that will help with the transition.

Once an appropriate location is found, something that will be undertaken by a committee, Seely said the Almond Tree Life Centre wants to start with a pilot project working with whole family units. Since addiction is something that impacts more than just the individual, it's important to offer programs for all members of the family.

"You've got to deal with that as a whole," said Seely.

Still in the early stages of planning and development, Seely said the project will become more defined as specifically tasked committees start their work. With the goal of providing well rounded treatment programs for each client, Seely is keeping an open mind.

"I'm not going to put this project in a box," she said. "I put this project in a box and I might miss a destiny opportunity."

Proponents have no doubt a facility like they envision with Almond Tree Life Centre is needed to serve not just the local community, but a larger demographic. An initial survey that garnered 125 responses was also completed identifying addiction as an issue in the area.

To help take the Almond Tree Life Centre to the next stage of development a fundraising gala is being held at the Mackenzie Conference Centre on Mar. 22.

Funds raised at the gala will go toward necessities such as purchasing a location, purchasing appropriate programs, bringing a manager and other costs associated with launching the project.

The fundraiser, which, given the goal of the project is raising funds for will be a dry event, gets underway at 5:40 p.m. The evening will feature musicals, dinner, entertainment by local musicians and a live and silent auction.

Many supporters have already come forward with donations in support of the fundraiser and just last week Seely said they confirmed one of the items up for auction will be a gold mining excursion in the Yukon at 16-mile for two people.

Seely said organizers are still seeking donations for the live and silent auction portion of the fundraiser. Tickets for the are $75 per plate, $140 per couple or $540 for a table of eight. Tickets are available at Dudley's Outdoor Escape, Life Church, Value Drug Mart or by contacting Seely at 780-898-2289.

Seely presented the vision of Almond Tree Life Centre to Brazeau County Council last week and will be in front of Drayton Valley Council at its meeting this week.

So far feedback for the project from those they've spoken to in the community has been "phenomenal." That support will be vital as Almond Tree Life Centre moves forward.

"I truly need the community," said Seely. "This is a community problem and it needs a community solution."

Project needs clear vision if it hopes to move to next stage

There were few things that could be called clear at a meeting held last week, surrounding a proposed capital project — including the name. I formed a multiplex by some and still referred to as an agitator by many who showed up. It was clear by the conclusion of the meeting there were lots of ideas, but little clear direction.

Originally brought forward as an annex to provide a dedicated facility for the many organizations and groups associated with that sector of the community, including rodeo activities and local 4-H, the project has encountered difficulties along the way. Many of those difficulties came when the scope of the project began deviating too far from what some proponents saw as the main use. The Drayton Valley and District Ag Society, which had sat on the initial committee, withdrew, and despite being one of the projects on the Drayton Valley (Brazeau County) Community Investment Plan, not much has happened to move the project forward.

Coun. Anthony Heinrich, one of two county councillors who sit on the committee, made it clear that no facility could move forward regardless of some common ground needed to be found to keep it alive. There were lots of ideas and even more questions, many of which were premature considering no one can even decide what the project should be called.

Agriculture user groups have long wanted a facility better suited to their needs than the Omplex and that can be used year round. On the other hand if the agriculture groups want municipal involvement there does need to be multiple uses for the facility, making it easier for the municipalities to justify coming on board.

The meeting and the seemingly vast differences in ideas on what the finished project should be, brought to mind another project, not that far removed from local memory, where a user group wanted a simple facility to play indoor soccer. They watched as that project kept changing and growing and trying to satisfy too many needs to the point where they threw up their hands and walked away and the project collapsed.

At the conclusion of last week's meeting a new committee was formed to define the scope of the project. Hopefully those involved can work together to come up with a workable vision that is clear and is giving to get what they want.

Reflections on Women's Day

It's not too often I try to introspect in this space, because frankly what's rattling around inside my brain can sometimes be a bit frightening. However, since International Women's Day was Mar. 8, I thought I'd give it a try.

Most days I don't really give too much thought to the greater meaning of being a woman — it's just something I am — it helps inform my perspectives and tells me what washroom I should use at the movie theatre. That's not to say that I'm ignorant of the struggles that it took to get to the point where I can give my gender only a passing thought during my day-to-day activities. I realize there are women whose bravery and courage I can never hope to understand who fought and demanded and sacrificed to give me that luxury.

I understand that it's a luxury we enjoy in the Western world that millions upon millions of other women and girls can not even dream of, in societies and cultures where they are oppressed, treated as inferiors and counted as worthless.

I understand too, that there are women in our very community, who are still treated that way — seen as less than, simply because of the outer packaging their true essence is encased in.

There and Back

But these aren't ever-present thoughts. Most days I go about my business secure in the knowledge that I can go where I want, do as I please and reach any goals I'm ambitious enough to set for myself. Those of you who know me, or have met me will be familiar with the fact that I don't hold back with my opinions or defer to anyone, man, woman, donkey or dog. I forge ahead without any doubts that what I have to say is just as worthy as what anyone else is saying.

I can't take the credit for that. I have to lay that credit at growing up around women who were strong, opinionated and not afraid to say what they thought was what. Whether it was my mom, my nana, my grandma, my aunt — they all led by example when it came to valuing myself and leaving behind any one who tried to tell me otherwise. The same goes for my dad, who has always made me believe I can achieve whatever I want.

Last Saturday a group of us at work, along with some supportive men gathered at the intersection of 50 St. and 90 Ave. where the women performed a flash mob as part of One Billion Rising. The flash mob is used as a tool to empower women who are survivors of violence or sexual assault, or any other act perpetrated simply because they're women. It's also to give a voice to the women across the globe who can't yet raise their own to demand to be seen as equals. The dance lasted all of five minutes, but the feeling it evoked, even in me, who was simply an observer, was something I wasn't wholly prepared for. There was elation, a feeling of solidarity and a sense that together we can continue to make a difference to other women in the world.

In that moment I didn't feel like 'woman' was a mere descriptor, but that it was something so much more important than that, a vital part of not just how I see myself, but how I see everything

Concern over safety at bridge construction

So would someone be so kind as to explain to me, why do we still have such a long under road construction speed limits? I can understand down to 60 kph across the bridge. But with exception of the chicane on the north end of the bridge and the chicane at the top of the hill there is no one working and how's best for a considerable amount of time.

It's narrow and gets worse when it snows because the snow builds up against the railings and makes it even more narrow. Do the people who do the maintenance not consider that to be a safety hazard? Or is it the responsibility of the bridge construction company?

I guess they don't have that problem in the southern states. "It all goes to understand in a long way to come all the way up here just to make the bridge safe to cross for just a few Canucks don't you know." Of course the highway department will say, "Well it's out of our hands don't you know."

In the meantime we risk death every time we cross that bridge. But in the offices of the department of highways they are safe sitting behind that big oak desk. Or on the other hand, relaxing on the beach in Florida or Louisiana or wherever the head office of this bunch came from.

They have requested — and as far as I know received, an additional year to complete the job. Because of the rain and bad weather last summer. As well the hall slipped. (as they were told would happen) so they need extra time to complete the job.

Why was the turn off of Highway 22 for the detour laid down and ripped up three times? I guess it's just in Canada that it's rain or snow. It's supposed to make a 90 degree turn off the highway in one lane, with no turning traffic, while a rig move is going on.

We need the new bridge, yes. Why could not a Canadian company have done the job and got it right the first time? (I am one, and I know there are others, consider this under taking and the way it's being done a colossal joke. A considerable amount of time was lost by the equipment sitting idle. In the summer time here, as most know, you make that while the sun shines. The season is short so you have to make use of every minute of good weather that is given to you. Run three shifts, put up lighting, the packers should be going night and day. This is not a minor to the kind of country he building roads. When the weather is good, get it done. It's not a minor to the equipment. It is not cheaper to do this way. I caution owners and doing substantial work 7-11 weeks.

Finding a moderately happy balance

A hectic job, chaos at home, unpaid bills and bad habits like smoking are telltale signs that a person has stress. But when our stress levels get extreme, it causes us to be unhappy and unhealthy. In fact, the body cannot function without it. Believe it or not, having negative situations in our lives can actually help us to grow as individuals through experience so those situations are less negative the next time around. Many of us encounter similar stressful situations but we all tend to deal with it very differently. I guess we need to find positive ways to reduce stress in our lives.

The term "moderation" keeps coming up. I have to admit, although I think it is a good idea for some people, I am not a follower of moderation. I grew up with very little, and now as an adult I want to see and do it all while riding a unicycle. I can not impose moderate stress upon myself. It always has to be big. I tend to keep putting myself into larger projects, either because I am dimwitted, or I thrive off the challenges it gives me to succeed. My guess is the latter. For me, hearing the word "can" makes me want to rebel in a big way, even in an "extreme" way. (Did you just say no? Just watch me!)

Who can honestly live a life of moderation? Think about it: a bit of exercise, but not too much, a bit of excitement but not too much, enough food but not overeating, I find that moderating everything (carbs, fats, drinks, exercise) can make a person quite boring. Oscar Wilde once said "Moderation is a fatal thing. Nothing succeeds like excess." Ahh, excess.

However, it is safe to say that moderation is better and healthier than being excessive. Addictions are excessive, and depending on the type, an individual can get quite sick if the addiction remains uncontrolled or goes unnoticed. Perhaps we should forget about the word "moderation" and replace it with the word "balance." I think weighing out the good with the bad is a more realistic approach to a healthier lifestyle than denying yourself of simple pleasures.

Yes, you can have an ice cream cone with your family, just balance it with a good cardio workout or more salad with your next meal. Balance can give a person more control over what happens in their lives and ideally creates less stress in the long run.

Perhaps we should focus more on balancing our activity with down time, this way we can commit to a healthier and more joyful lifestyle. Choose a couple of TV shows to watch, and then pair it up with a walk or game of soccer with your family.

Don't forget to give your self at least one day of "you time" a week to recharge for the next week of chaos.

Around the water cooler...

We're happy to be enjoying some warmer temperatures this week, even if it does make it a bit sloppy out there.

We want to start this week by sending out birthday wishes to Angela Cox. Angela is going to be blowing out her candles on Mar. 16. Her family wanted to send her love and birthday hugs to help make it a great day!

Congratulations to all those who came out to Strike, Dance, Rise at noon last Saturday as part of the One Billion Rising movement. It was an energetic and fun way to show solidarity for gender equality. Kudos also to Stetson Truck Centre, which graciously moved its trucks to allow the group to dance in their parking lot.

There's lots happening this week, including an open house being hosted by Yellowhead MP Rob Merrifield on Mar. 12. The open house is a chance for residents to come out and ask questions of their federal representative. The open house begins at 7 p.m. in the curling lounge at the Omplex.

Earlier that day why not slip down to the Omplex for the first day of the Evergreen Farmers' Market. The market runs from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. There's always lots of great finds, so go down and check it out.

That's all for this week. Have a wonderfully warm week!

Women in Business 2014

Focused on growth

Success in business can be found in growth and no one knows this better than Pat Vos who took an already existing company with less than 100 clients and turned it into a thriving messaging and Emergency Response Service.

Originally known as Valley Communications, in 1996 Vos purchased the local company and through hard work and technological upgrades she revamped the business into what it is today — Intercom Messaging.

Already knowing how important growth can be to a company, Vos and her staff continually look for ways to improve their services making themselves better, as well as their ability to make their clients the best.

"I'm really proud of my staff and their continued commitment to personal and professional growth," says Vos.

"We're focused on growth, but our people, our organization, and in any way we can help our clients grow their businesses."

From continually attending seminars and workshops, to becoming a corporate sponsor at NATE, finding the strategies for achieving success was what Intercom Messaging strives for.

"Industry or business rewards companies that are open minded, forward thinking, solution based, and keep a keen interest in their clients' footprints in their mind," shares Vos.

"How can we continue to educate ourselves to provide the best service possible?" Whatever the answer, Intercom Messaging has found it, having received 11 consecutive Awards of Excellence and 11 Awards of Distinction for exceptional emergency response during C.A.M. X's annual convention.

Merrifield to host open house

Yellowhead MP to visit Drayton Valley Mar. 12

Lesley Allan
Western Review

With a hectic schedule as Member of Parliament for Yellowhead, as well as Chair of the House of Commons Standing Committee on International Trade, Rob Merrifield doesn't often get to visit the various areas of his riding, but with a new federal budget as well as many hot button issues he felt it was time to visit his electorate.

"It's been a while since I've had the time to actually do this," says Merrifield. "My obligations in the US take me away on a awful lot as well as international trade. So I determined that I wanted to do this run."

"We've introduced a budget, we have infrastructure announcements that have been made and we would want to make sure that we get the appropriate response from the electorate," he continues. "It's just a way for me to get a really good sense as to how the riding is feeling about what I can do to represent them in an even better way."

Taking place on Mar. 12, Merrifield says the town hall meetings are the perfect opportunity for area residents to enquire about anything that might be of concern to them.

"Nothing is going to be taken. Any question is going to be a fair question and I'll answer it to the best of my ability," he says. "My style is quite direct and if I can't answer it and I can't we'll try and find an answer."

"We'll talk about any issue that [residents] want to talk about," Merrifield adds.

"There are lots of issues out there and I don't want to hold anyone off to say 'No that's a taboo question'. A very frank open discussion is what I'm looking forward to."

Taking a look at some of the issues held by not only local residents, but Canadians as a whole, there are several issues Merrifield expects to come up during the open discussion.

"There's no doubting that the reclassification of the Swiss Arms Rifle was a major issue last week. I would be really surprised if that didn't come up and what we're going to do to address it," he says. "Infrastructure, opportunities and where we're going with that on the financial side of it is always a concern. Plus the threat of international issues such as the Ukraine, I'd be surprised if people aren't concerned about what we're doing it and how we're doing it."

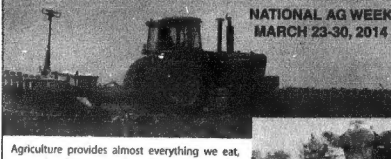

Taking place at the Omniplex curling lounge starting at 7 p.m. more information about the town hall meeting can be found at <http://merrifield.com/7p-4147>.

FIRE DESTROYS HOME
No one was injured in a structure fire that members of the Drayton Valley/Brazeau County Fire Services responded to last week.

Firefighters from Station No. 2 in Breton and Station No. 3 in Drayton Valley were dispatched to reports of a home on fire in the Birchwood area last Wednesday morning. Deputy Fire Chief Murray Galavan said there was a resident home at the time, but she escaped the home with no injuries, as did the family pets.

Galavan said the woman had just said goodbye to her partner and when she went back in the house she smelled, and subsequently saw, smoke in the bathroom. She went outside and saw that the side of the house had caught fire.

The blaze was still under investigation last week. The structure fire was one of seven calls for service the fire department responded to between Feb. 26 and Mar. 5.

On Feb. 26 around 7:30 p.m. firefighters were dispatched to assist EMS with a medical emergency. Around 4:30 p.m. on Feb. 28 the fire services responded to a vehicle fire in the area of the Evergreen Golf Club. Fire Chief Tom Thomson said it appeared that the vehicle was stolen and had been set on fire.

Later that same night around 11 p.m. there was an alarm call at a residence in Poplar Ridge. That alarm turned out to be a false alarm and was the result of a faulty alarm.

March started off with a call for a chimney fire around 8:30 a.m. on Mar. 1. A concerned homeowner had been burning something when he heard a loud PWB17 is adjusted accordingly.

The centre will retain the money in capital investment funds and release it to the BCF at the time of sod turning. The Village of Breton has received the cost to construct a new community centre, which is projected to be $4.8 million with the ground breaking to be in 2017.

Winter road conditions returned on Mar. 4 and emergency services were called to a two vehicle collision on Hwy. 821 between a tanker truck and another vehicle. Right after that incident another collision took place nearby, the original crash.

A ROAR OF APPRECIATION
On the heels of last week's structure fire where a local family lost many of their possessions, Fire Chief Tom Thomson wanted to send some accolades to a local service organization.

Thomson said that when locals are impacted by structure fires the Drayton Valley Lions Club steps up with no fanfare to donate funds to help them with some basic needs such as clothes. "It's very much appreciated by the victims of the fire and the fire department," said Thomson.

Courtside comedy comes to Frank Maddock

Lesley Allan Western Review
Basketballs weren't the only thing rolling on the court as laughter filled the gymnasium at Frank Maddock High School on Mar. 3 when the Fabulous Harlem Crown Basketball Team dribbled into town. Showing off their unique flavor of basketball, which puts comedy in motion and is known to the team as clown ball, the Harlem Crowns went toe-to-toe against the high school's Warriors and Amazons basketball team as a fundraiser for school athletics. In the end the scoreboard wasn't the focus, although the score was close, because fun, sportsmanship, and comedy was all that mattered for every player on the court.

Drayton Valley court briefs

Courtney Whalen
Western ReviewMULTIPLE DRINKING
AND DRIVING OFFENCES
END IN JAIL

A man was taken into custody last week in Drayton Valley Provincial Court after pleading guilty to six charges, including a number related to drinking and driving.

Jason Rowell pleaded guilty to charges relating to a number of separate incidents, both in the Drayton Valley area and in Edmonton.

On Dec. 7, 2012 Drayton Valley RCMP were called after a driver had pulled a U-turn and sideswiped a woman's vehicle. When the woman initially approached the man, he asked her not to phone the police and at that time she believed he might have been drinking.

When police arrived and administered the roadside test after they noticed a smell of alcohol, Rowell, who was the driver, failed. He was arrested and taken back to the RCMP detachment where he was given a breathalyzer test and had a reading of .251. The legal limit is .050.

A few months later, on Feb. 18, 2013 Rowell was involved in a slow speed chase with police when he refused to pull over despite the fact that police made repeated attempts to get him to stop.

In that incident, which resulted in Rowell pleading guilty to failing to stop for police last week, officers initially tried to stop a vehicle after noticing it was travelling slowly and weaving between lanes. The vehicle kept going through Drayton Valley and onto Hwy. 22. Police followed and although the driver, who turned out to be Rowell, acknowledged them by gesturing, he did not stop. Police eventually backed off and went to his home residence. They saw the vehicle parked nearby, but as an officer approached the vehicle on foot, Rowell took off again.

Police later returned to his residence, were granted access and found Rowell hiding in the basement. Police again charged Rowell for drinking and driving on July 1, 2013 after they were called shortly before 7 p.m. The caller said they had seen a man drinking in a driveway and then drive off. Police located the vehicle and identified it as belonging to Rowell. Familiar with the previous chase, officers followed the vehicle until it pulled into a local parking lot. When police approached Rowell they noticed a smell of alcohol and that he was having trouble standing. They also located an open bottle of vodka in the driver's side door. He was arrested and charged.

The final incident that resulted in the charges before Judge Marilyn White last week happened in Edmonton. On July 26, 2013 around 9 p.m. members of the Edmonton Police Services responded to a call from a citizen who had been speaking to someone who they believed to be intoxicated who then got in a vehicle and was driving erratically. He was located by police at a liquor store. When police attempted to arrest him he resisted and did not follow their directions. He subsequently refused to give a breath sample.

Crown Prosecutor Ronald Hogan told that court that surprisingly the 34-year-old Rowell had no previous criminal record.

The Crown and defence put forward a joint submission for a total sentence of 120 days in jail for the July 1, 2013 incident plus given a two-year driving prohibition.

For the charges laid by the Edmonton Police Services White sentenced him to a total of 120 days in jail on the charges.

That will be served on top of the previous 30 days. Rowell also chose to serve time in custody instead of paying his fines, adding another 56 days to the time he will spend in jail.

"You're being given an opportunity here," said White. "Don't blow it."

"I just want to say that I'm very grateful that I didn't seriously injure or kill someone," he continued.

White said the fact that Rowell has taken steps to deal with his addiction played a part in her decision.

He was issued a $2,000 fine for the Dec. 7, 2012 incident and an additional $2,000 fine for failing to stop for police on Feb. 18, 2013.

Courtney Whalen
Western ReviewMAY GET MORE TIME IN JAIL
FOR BEING IN LODGEPOLE

A 28-year-old with 36 prior convictions added six more to his record last week after pleading guilty to a number of charges.

Matthew Lewis McKay (not the local musician) pleaded guilty to possession of stolen property, altering identification markers on a vehicle and four charges of failing to comply with court-imposed conditions.

In January of this year Drayton Valley RCMP received information that McKay was living in Drayton Valley. Local police knew he was wanted on arrest warrants and issued a search warrant for his arrest.

McKay also pleaded guilty to four charges of failing to comply with conditions, all of them related to not reporting to the Drayton Valley RCMP each week, as he was required to.

A joint submission for five months in jail was presented to Judge Marilyn White by the Crown and defence attorney — she did not accept the recommendation on sentencing. When rendering her sentence White noted McKay's 36 prior convictions, many of them related to property crime, as well as the fact that he had deliberately tried to conceal the fact the quad was stolen by tampering with the serial number and repainting parts of it.

On the charges of possession of stolen property and altering identifying markers McKay was sentenced to 210 days in custody (approximately seven months) on each, but the terms will be served concurrently (at the same time). He was given credit for 48 days spent in pre-sentence custody. He was sentenced to an additional 30 days on the first charge of failing to comply with conditions and 30 days on each of the remaining three charges that will be served concurrent to the first.

MAN IN JAIL AFTER BEING FOUND IN STOLEN TRUCK
Being found in a truck that was stolen when the driver stepped away for a few minutes at a local gas station has landed a man in jail for half a year.

Last week Carl Snow pleaded guilty to possession of stolen property in relation to a Feb. 6 incident where police were alerted to "look for a truck that had been reported stolen."

Police arrived on scene at the local gas station on Feb. 6 they found the truck had been stolen approximately five minutes prior to their arrival. Drayton Valley RCMP contacted OnStar, which was able to track the location of the truck and keep police updated as they searched for it.

Police located a truck matching the description of the stolen vehicle and saw one occupant inside, who was determined to be Snow. He was then arrested.

This crime out for denunciation and deterrence," Crown Prosecutor Ronald Hogan said during his submissions to the court.

He noted that the theft of the truck wasn't simply a property crime, because stealing someone's vehicle has the potential to cause them harm if they are stranded without transportation and there was an emergency.

"These crimes are being taken more seriously all the time," Hogan told the court, before asking Judge Marilyn White to consider a six-month custodial sentence for Snow.

White agreed, sentencing him to six months in jail. He was given credit for one month spent in pre-sentence custody.

MAN GETS MORE TIME IN JAIL FOR BEING IN LODGEPOLE
For the second time in a month James Leboe pleaded guilty to breaching conditions.

On Feb. 4 Leboe pleaded guilty to three counts of breaching court imposed conditions, including having contact with a woman he had been ordered not to and being in Lodgepole. He was sentenced to 25 days in jail, but given credit for 25 days spent in pre-sentence custody.

Last week Leboe, appearing via closed circuit television from the Edmonton Remand Centre and pleaded guilty to three more charges of breaching conditions.

On Feb. 19 RCMP responded to a call for service in the Hamlet of Lodgepole where a woman said she had been in an altercation with her ex-boyfriend, Leboe. Police located Leboe and charged him with breaching conditions that stated he wasn't to have contact with the woman, that he wasn't to be in the Hamlet of Lodgepole and that he was to keep the peace and be of good behaviour.

"Basically he snubbed his nose at the court within a week or two of being sentenced," said Crown Prosecutor Ronald Hogan.

Judge Marilyn White sentenced Leboe to 45 days in jail on each charge, to be served concurrently (at the same time). He was given credit for 14 days spent in pre-sentence custody.

SHOPLIFTING LANDS MAN IN JAIL
A man who stole a number of items from the local Rexall Drugs was sentenced last week in Drayton Valley Provincial Court.

Kyle Desbien pleaded guilty to theft under $5,000 and possession of a controlled substance.

On Jan. 24 Drayton Valley RCMP were called to the drug store shortly after noon for the report of a shoplifter who had left the store. Police responded and were able to locate a man matching the shoplifter's description, who turned out to be Desbien. An initial search of Desbien turned up a tube of stolen lip chap and a cell phone charger. Once taken back to the detachment a further search of Desbien revealed two bags of pills.

Last week Desbien was sentenced to 30 days in jail for the theft and 30 days in jail for possession of the drugs. He was given credit for equivalent time spent in pre-sentence custody.

MAN FINED FOR DRINKING AND DRIVING
A man is $1,200 poorer after pleading guilty to driving with more than the legal limit of alcohol in his system.

Last week in Drayton Valley Provincial Court Saylor Robinson pleaded guilty to charges stemming from an arrest on Jan. 26.

Around 12:30 a.m. that morning police observed a vehicle making a wide turn and travelling at a high rate of speed. When the vehicle was stopped, police noticed a smell of liquor coming from Robinson, who was the driver. He was arrested and taken back to the local detachment for a breathalyzer test where his results were 130. The legal limit is 80.

Judge Marilyn White issued Robinson a $1,200 fine and a one-year driving prohibition.

SEASONAL
DISORDER
(SAD)?Jennifer Winter
Pharmacist

Are you starting to feel tired or winter? I know that so many of us start to feel a bit down this time of year when the cold and snow seems to be never-ending. But for some, this time of year can be quite difficult to deal with. Seasonal Affective Disorder (SAD) may affect up to 10% of the population in northern climates. SAD can cause symptoms such as depressed mood, lack of energy, increased need for sleep, and weight gain. It appears to be more common in women than it is in men. A decrease in some of our "happy" hormones due to the lack of sunlight and shorter days is thought to be a cause of SAD. The good news is, there are treatments available. Antidepressants and light therapy can be used alone or in combination to help prevent and treat SAD. I personally find that exercise can also really help. If you feel that you may be experiencing SAD, please know that there is help available. Talk to your doctor, pharmacist or other health care professional.

SHOULD I GET MY
OIL CHANGES DONE
ACCORDING TO MY
OIL LIFE MONITOR
OR BY MILEAGE?Karl Borel
Shop Foreman

First, check your owner's manual for manufacturer recommendations and requirements. As per the General Motors owner's manual the recommendation is as follows: Most vehicles have a computer system that indicates when to change the engine oil and filter. This is based on a combination of factors which include engine revolutions, engine temperature, and miles driven. Based on driving conditions, the mileage at which an oil change is indicated can vary considerably. For the oil life system to work properly the system must be reset every time the oil is changed. On some vehicles, when the system has calculated that oil life has been diminished, a CHANGE ENGINE OIL SOON message comes on to indicate that an oil change is necessary. Change the oil as soon as possible within the next 1000km. It is possible that, if driving under the best conditions, the oil life system might indicate that an oil change is not necessary for up to 1 year. The engine oil and filter must be changed at least once a year and, at this time, the system must be reset. For vehicles without the CHANGE ENGINE OIL SOON message, an oil change is needed when the OIL LIFE REMAINING percentage is near 0%. If the system is reset too frequently, the oil must be changed at 5000km (3000mi) since the last oil change. If you choose not to use the oil life sensor system then the recommended oil change interval is 5000km (3000mi). It is a good idea to check the engine oil level in each fuel fill. In order to get an accurate reading, the vehicle must be on a level ground.

Thunder playoff run ended by Oil Barons

Oil Barons defeat Thunder in best-of-five first round

Courtney Whalen
 Western Review

AHL hockey in Drayton Valley has come to a close for the season after the Drayton Valley Thunder were put out of the playoffs by the Fort McMurray Oil Barons on Mar. 9.

After two losses on the road in Fort McMurray Mar. 6 and Mar. 7, the Thunder were back on home ice Sunday afternoon, hoping it would work to their advantage and keep them in the best-of-five first round. They had a crowd of more than 800 in the Omplex to cheer them on and with the skill of netminder Marc Olivier Daigle, who would face 45 shots in the game, they kept it tied through two.

In a must-win situation there was little holding back on the pace or the hits as the MOB tried to clinch a spot in the second round. A power play goal early in the third gave the Oil Barons the lead and a second goal before the halfway point widened the gap to 3-1.

It was a margin the Thunder weren't able to come back from and AHL hockey came to a close in Drayton Valley at the buzzer.

Before leaving the ice the Thunder raised their sticks in salute of the fans who have cheered them on throughout the season.

The season may be over, but there will be no rest for the Thunder organization as they gear up for spring training camp in Drayton Valley later this month and a southern spring training camp in Calgary in April.

Watch in next week's Western Review for a wrap-up of the 2013-14 Thunder season.

Courtney Whalen Western Review

It was a hard fought game at the Drayton Valley Omplex on Mar. 9, but in the end the Fort McMurray Oil Barons came away with the victory, ending the post-season for the Drayton Valley Thunder in the best-of-five first round.

Local runner finds success at indoor provincials

Frank Maddock student brings home silver and bronze

Lesley Allan Western Review

A local athlete continues to push forward with his running career and finds great success in his latest competition as he attended the Alberta Indoor Track & Field Championships at the Universade Pavilion in Edmonton on Mar 1 and 2. A Grade 11 student at Frank Maddock High School, 17 year old Royden Radowits continues to show strength and passion in running having had a successful cross country season in the fall and now showing great strength for indoor track and field.

"It was pretty good, a lot of fast guys in the races, it was good competition as it always is with Provincials," shares Radowits, looking back on the track meet. "Most of those guys I raced against last year so I knew most of them and I've raced with distances before so I had a good idea of what was going to happen." Always striving to be the best, Radowits has much to be proud of as he brought home a bronze medal in the 1,500 metre junior men's race, as well as a silver in 1,000 metre

"I'm fairly happy with it, they were good races, all the competition was very strong so it was difficult to take the spots that I did..."

— Royden Radowits

"I'm fairly happy with it, they were good races, all the competition was very strong so it was difficult to take the spots that I did but you had to work hard to get it."

Work hard he did, training seven days a week to continuously improve his personal best. Radowits was able to not only do that in both the 1,500 and 3,000 metre races but he did so by approximately 30 seconds in the longer distance.

"I first found out (about the new personal best) when we were about seven minutes into the race and I looked up at the clock and I was like oh man, we're actually going to break nine minutes," he shares. "Then each lap after that it was 'we're going to do it, we're actually going to break that nine, and then by the time that the end came it wasn't a huge surprise, but 31 seconds, that's pretty impressive'."

"It makes me feel pretty good because I talked to some university coaches after that and they said they weren't running that time until they were fourth year, so to be running it in Grade 11 is pretty good," adds Radowits.

Passionate about running and riding high off a successful showing at the championships, Radowits says that was like this help to push him forward and drive to continue cutting time off his run.

Not one to sit still for long, he is already looking ahead to his next race when he takes part in the Edmonton Journal Indoor Games on Mar. 16, followed by training for high school zones, and the beginning of the outdoor track season.

Local high school runner Royden Radowits had a very successful show during the Alberta Indoor Track & Field Championships at the Universade Pavilion in Edmonton on Mar. 1 and 2. Radowits, took home a bronze in the 1,500 metre and a silver in the 3,000 metre.

Local fighters attend Edmonton series

Brittney Gaudet
 Special to the Western Review

March 1 marked the date of the Edmonton Submission Series Tournament where a local group of students attended the event. The event is one out of four that last throughout the year.

Competing first was Kaylib Catt in Gi as well as No Gi. Catt won second in both of the events.

"Kaylib is doing a great job against the competitors that have many more years training than he does," said Sensei Ken Sumner. "It's fantastic to see such development in such a short time."

Shelby Girard was second in representing Drayton Valley in the tournament. Girard has spent previous months recovering from an injury. She claimed third in her Gi division but went on to do an outstanding job in her exhibition match.

Winning first in the Gi division was Justus Kennedy, who presented remarkable pose and skill. Kennedy normally clears out his division and this tournament was no different.

After spending the morning judging and coaching Sumner competed in the Heavyweight Advanced BJJ division. The competitor was a former lineal for the University of Calgary Dinos. At 225 pounds Sumner was outweighed in the end by 40 pounds. During the six minute round Sumner lost 4 to 3. Although defeated he was still pleased with the result saying,

"Getting out there and competing is important. You get to see what you are like under stress, and dealing with adrenaline - also you get to meet some great friends as well."

No ice, no problem for annual curling event

► Zorn Memorial Bonspiel ready to rock

Courtney Whalen
Western Review

Curlers can leave their brooms and skates at home this year when they take part in the fourth annual Jeff Zorn Memorial Bonspiel.

The fun bonspiel, held each year to celebrate the memory of Jeffrey Zorn, combines curling, poker and lots of good times as participants raise money to support the Make-A-Wish Foundation, Northern Alberta. It's a cause close to the Zorn family's heart. While he was battling ill, Jeff was granted a wish that allowed him and his family to travel to Mexico for a vacation. After his death, and with the exception of the memorial bonspiel, money raised has helped grant other wishes to local children, including to a local family with autism.

Everything was set for this year, but when a portion of the curling club roof collapsed in January, abruptly putting an end to the sport in Drayton Valley for the season, plans had to change.

Connie Zorn, Jeff's mom, said she started getting calls from people who didn't want to see the yearly tribute to Jeff cancelled.

"People called me and said, 'What are you going to do with Jeff's bonspiel?'" she said last week.

No organizers came up with a way to keep the curling event going without the need for ice and it's set to go Apr. 4-5.

This year registered teams will be trying their luck and skill at shuffleboard curling. With all the same elements of the real curl, only on a tabletop scale with no ice, Zorn and fellow organizer Mirzi Koehnrich think it's going to be a fun alternative to the traditional bonspiel.

As in previous years, curlers will split their time between curling and the poker tables and both Koehnrich and Zorn were sure that Jeff would be watching, most likely shaking his head over some of the plays at the poker table. A fundraiser for the Make-A-Wish Foundation the weekend is also a way for people to get together to remember their friend and loved one, who died at the age of 24.

"That's why we did it in the first place," said Koehnrich, noting that Jeff was an active member with the curling club.

With around 27 teams already registered, anyone else interested in the bonspiel needs to register by Mar. 26.

Along with the shuffleboard curling and poker that gets underway Friday it will also be wing and nacho night. Saturday night includes a banquet for those in attendance along with a few comments from representatives of the Make-A-Wish Foundation and the family who were sure that Jeff would be watching.

Those still wishing to register for next month's event can call the Drayton Valley Curling Club at 780-542-4795.

The bonspiel, being held at the MacKenzie Conference Centre this year, will also include a silent auction and Koehnrich said members of the public should feel free to come down to cheer on teams as they wing and nacho night.

With the exception of the banquet, all money raised goes to support of Make-A-Wish.

Those still wishing to register for next month's event can call the Drayton Valley Curling Club at 780-542-4795.

Youngmen season winds down

Brittney Gaudet
Special to the Western Review

Drayton Valley's Youngmen indoor soccer squad went head to head against Palermo last week. This was the game the Youngmen hoped to come out claiming a sweet victory, however were defeated with a final score of eight to one.

Defensively the Youngmen weren't too sharp, and Palermo managed to get on the board early due to a sloppy play. Even though the Youngmen got knocked down early in the first half they didn't let the score get to them. Coming back into the game by tying the score the Youngmen's hope once again spiked, believing that they had a fair chance on winning the game. Unfortunately, by the time the score was tied at half time the Youngmen were down by four, leaving the score five to one for Palermo.

Palermo was doing a remarkable job of pressuring the Youngmen, causing their offensive power to go unused due to the half not getting up field. Palermo ended up scoring three more goals in the second half with the Youngmen remaining the same.

As much as we played poorly, Palermo have been doing extra training and really pushing for promotion, and it showed," said Brad Kelly.

The score wasn't the only thing bothering the Youngmen. The team also had some issues with the officiating.

"It was completely one sided," said Kelly. "It felt like we were going to start losing players to ejections because they were so infuriated with the referee."

Due to the belief that the team was receiving unfair treatment the Youngmen told the assistant referee to let the clock run as they left the field. They're now turning their focus to the Heritage Cup and training for the upcoming outdoor season.

These messages are sent from School Connect, but will appear in your e-mail inbox with your school name. To ensure you receive e-mail messages sent from your school or the division, please make sure you allow messages from notifications@schoolconnectweb.com, so they do not wind up in your spam or junk mail folder. Something wicked this way comes... actually, it's been here for a week! No, not the lion-like weather of March; FMHS has been partnering with artists in residence, Liz Amy, and Elliott from Theatre Prospero, since Mar. 3. Many of our staff and students have been working hard on our very own production of Shakespeare's Macbeth. Come see for yourself on Mar. 14 at 7 p.m. in the Max.

Good luck to our Journal Games competitors who are representing, FMHS in Edmonton today!

Congratulations, also, to in-house running expert, Royden Radwits, who dizzied once more at provincials last week.

Once again, we'd like to thank everyone who came out to support FMHS basketball in their game against the Harlem Crews. We'd also like to congratulate Dan Meudwell for his extra-special "technical" award.

Students rewriting English diplomas in April are encouraged to come for extra help to A2 on Tuesdays and Thursdays at lunch. At-risk letters and progress reports should be sent out by Mar. 14. Parent/teacher interviews will be Mar. 18.

March might have come in like a lion, but it came with at least three extra days off for us to rest up and not help cudgel it into a lamb; there is no school on Mar. 21. March 28 is the end of the spring break, and we won't be back until April 7.

LOCAL STUDIO PLANS VIRTUAL CROSS CANADA TOUR

It would take a lifetime to see everything there is to see in an area, but Edmonton company Clever Eye Studio plans to capture the country from coast to coast filming historically Canadian experiences from an air.

This project, dubbed We Can Fly Canada, involves Clever Eye Studio founder Harris Burton remounting the camera gimbal while his friend, pilot Scott McSweeney operates the Caneva 4000, an aircraft.

The schedule is still unclear and approvals still pending, but Burton hopes to capture everything from rolling hills of farmland to the Canadian Rockies in a season.

"This is the reason story we're telling is to show 40 states, Burton said. I want to be a travelling four month trip for the two members (and budget permitting, a third person to handle the corporate side of things), travelling and living in a travel pod, a truck stacked with their equipment."

"I'm originally from Halifax. I've done the drive and know what it's like," Burton said. "It's certainly not an easy drive to do, but it's very fast moving to be able to pull every body together from across the country under one project."

The crew aims at beginning the filming in July, wrapping up in September on the edge of Labrador's coast.

Burton hopes to submit the end result to a number of prestigious film festivals including Toronto, Cannes and Sundance, though they want to make an appearance at other suburban dates, until 2015.

The project's lifeblood, Burton explained, is the copier, purchased from Montana-based company Quad receiver for around $17,000, paid out of pocket by the studio.

The copier has a 12 pound payload and, as is a weather proofed, can handle operation in light snow and 20 km per hour wind, though heavy rain would weigh it down too much.

McSweeney, who works at a flight school out of St. Albert, can safely fly the rig at 1,500 feet, any higher and it could potentially interfere with air traffic.

For Burton, this is also a way to expose people to the possibilities that come along with this relatively new technology.

"A lot of people don't realize that this technology, it's expensive but it's available to do these kinds of things."

The setup affords around a half hour of flight time with the crew's Red Epic and Blackmagic cinema cameras capable of shooting in 4K resolution.

This is the first time footage of that quality has been shot from the sky on this scale.

"In doing this project, we want to do it right."

The team launched an Indiegogo campaign on Feb. 19, looking for $10,000 in sponsorship.

All donors above $25 will have their names mentioned in the film.

A sponsor who donates over $1,000 gets the party's sign in the final cut and commercial donations of over $4,000 are rewarded with a commercial spot on the film.

Large donors can also organize reveals for the project to film, and any one who gives — either a large or small amount — can win the same weekly random draw.

Through this, Burton hopes that the project can spread awareness for issues and charities across the country.

"Basically, we want to be a space to collect ideas of events or anything across the country that we can be part of," Burton said.

"It's all about the culture of Canada. Anything and everything that makes us Canadian, that's the idea."

All donations through the crowd funding website are returned if the goal is not met.

It's still early days for We Can Fly. The team is still hoping to hear back from the RCMP, Natural Resources Canada and Agriculture Canada, to name a few.

Clever Eye has already taken on a substantial financial burden on the project, Burton said, but regardless of how much support they gain, the project will go ahead in one form or another.

"That's the insane story we're telling is the beauty of Canada," Burton said. Clever Eye has made it possible to follow We Can Fly's progress on Twitter by searching @wearecleverye and find regular updates on its official blog www.clevereye.ca/worldpers.com.

VISTA MINE APPROVED WITH CONDITIONS

Hinton Post-Kaiser

Coalpur's Vista Coal Project has been approved by the provincial regulator, but with some strings attached.

The Alberta Energy Regulator published its decision granting conditional approval for the Vista mine Feb. 27. The AER attached 26 conditions to the project related to its socioeconomic, environmental and land use impacts. Ten of the conditions must be met within five years.

The decision comes about 45 days after a hearing with the AER closed on Jan. 13, where one resident appeared before the panel to voice her concerns about the mine's effect on the local economy.

Coalpur had requested a decision within 14 days but the regulator's report notes the coal mining company did not provide enough information for a quick decision.

"The approval is good for five years," said Darin Butler, spokesman for the Alberta Energy Regulator. In the meantime, Coalpur can go ahead and build the mine. If the 10 "pre-project" conditions are not completed within the five years, the AER would pull their license, Butler added.

Some of those conditions include a water management plan for surface and groundwater monitoring, wildlife monitoring and measuring changes in vegetation — in particular in three sensitive wetlands in the area of the mine.

The Vista mine site is located about 10 kilometres east of town and stretches 12 kilometres southeast towards the McLeod River Valley.

The 26 conditions go "above and beyond" what was in Coalpur's application, Butler said.

But the company feels "very confident" that it can meet all of the conditions within the regulated timeframes.

Coalpur was not surprised by the conditions, stated spokeswoman Stephanie Evans. "Many of the conditions were expected given discussions and correspondence with the AER during the approval process."

Vista will result in a "direct loss of approximately 5.8 square kilometres of forested wetlands within the project footprint," the AER noted in its Feb. 27 application report. There are few measures to mitigate the loss of the sensitive ecosystem, which may not be part of Coalpur's reclamation plan, though there is the possibility of future development.

Impact to sensitive species such as grizzly bears, western voles and long-toed salamanders are considered. Coalpur has committed to transplant the salamanders to "suitable habitat" from the destroyed wetlands and will work to "minimize grizzly bear mortality," according to the AER report. A 200-metre "buffer zone" would be created along the McLeod River corridor to preserve habitat for roads, other small mammals and birds.

Water quality monitoring in the area would be required to ensure the protection of rainbow trout, a sensitive fish species. Rainbow trout habitat was recently impacted in November when 670 million litres of coal mining wastewater escaped from Sheritt's Obed Mountain Mine and spilled through two creeks before emptying into the Athabasca River.

Butter said none of the conditions attached to the Vista mine have anything to do with the Obed incident.

As for air quality, the regulator notes that the Vista mine's coal dryer would emit particles into the air and greenhouse gases. Coalpur could eliminate the dryer from project plans, but in any case the AER encourages Coalpur to go beyond the minimum regulatory requirements and implement best practices.

Coalpur has previously stated its plans to begin shipping five million tonnes of coal annually in 2015, but the AER has delayed the schedule to start shipping, likely beyond 2015.

"Receipt of this approval represents an important step in Coalpur's vision to be a leading export thermal coal producer," stated Coalpur CEO Gill Winkler in a Feb. 27 news release. "The certainty of the AER report, a 200-metre 'buffer zone' would be created along the McLeod River corridor to preserve habitat for roads, other small mammals and birds.

Application for the Genesee generating station units 4 and 5 in the Genesee area

Capital Power Generation Services Inc. filed a facility application to construct and operate two natural gas-fired generation units, with a total nameplate capacity of 1,050 megawatts (MW), on a brownfield site adjacent to the existing Genesee generating station located approximately 30 kilometres southwest of Stony Plain, Alberta. The Genesee generating station currently includes units 1 to 3 and the two new units, if approved, would be designated as Genesee generating station units 4 and 5.

Anyone who wishes to express objections to, concerns about, or support for the application, must make a written submission to the Alberta Utilities Commission on or before March 28, 2014, clearly identifying Proceeding ID No. 2996 on the submission.

The gas-fired unit will use natural gas combined cycle technology and each unit consists of a single natural gas turbine paired with a heat recovery steam generator and a single steam turbine. The project will be located in the southeast quarter of Section 25, Township 50, Range 3, west of the Fifth Meridian.

How to file a submission:

The AUC prescribes that all submissions be filed using the Digital Data Submission service on the AUC website found under Filing Guidelines. Notice

AUC
Alberta Utilities Commission

Capital Power Generation Services Inc. filed a facility application to construct and operate two natural gas-fired generation units, with a total nameplate capacity of 1,050 megawatts (MW), on a brownfield site adjacent to the existing Genesee generating station located approximately 30 kilometres southwest of Stoney Plain, Alberta. The Genesee generating station currently includes units 1 to 3 and the two new units, if approved, would be designated as Genesee generating station units 4 and 5.

Anyone who wishes to express objections to, concerns about, or support for the application, must make a written submission to the Alberta Utilities Commission on or before March 28, 2014, clearly identifying Proceeding ID No. 2996 on the submission.

The project will use natural gas combined cycle technology and each unit consists of a single natural gas turbine paired with a heat recovery steam generator and a single steam turbine. The project will be sited in the southeast quarter of Section 25, Township 50, Range 3, west of the 1-16-Mile Rd.

How to file a submission:

Submitters are encouraged to file submissions by using the Digital Data Submission service on the AUC website found under E-filing. Guidelines on how to access and use the E-filing services are in the AUC E-filing Services brochure, available in the news/brochures section of our website. For additional assistance, or with filing your submission please contact the AUC at 780-543-1055.

Submitters must include the following with your submission:

- A complete address, phone number, email address, and description of where your land is in relation to the proposed facilities.
- How your rights may be directly and adversely affected.
- Explain how the Commission's decision may affect you.

Alternative submission methods:

Complete submission Form D (submission form for power plant applications found in the news/brochures section of our website and either email your submission to filings@auc.ab.ca or mail it to the AUC with the required information.

Privacy:

Please be aware that any information and materials you provide as part of an AUC proceeding, except information granted confidentiality will become part of the public record and will be posted to the AUC's electronic filing system. This includes personal information such as your name, address and any other personal information you provide.

AUC decision-making process:

The AUC is reviewing the application and will advise when it has been deemed complete, and will review submissions received. Those who have made submissions, who have been determined by the Commission to have rights that may be directly and adversely affected by a decision on the application, will be considered to have standing. If no submissions are received, or if submissions are received from persons without standing, the AUC may make a decision on the applications without further notice or without a public hearing. Alternatively, the Commission will hold a public hearing if it receives an objection from a person with standing and further details will be provided in a notice of hearing.

To obtain more information:

For the full application, please go to the E-filing section of our website to access the proceeding or use this link: <https://www.auc.ab.ca/ebd/EPIS/Query/ProceedingDetail.aspx?ProceedingID=2996>

If you do not have access to the Internet, please contact us and we can arrange to have a paper copy of the application sent to you. AUC contact: Anne Chen, Phone: 403-592-4465 Email: anne.chen@auc.ab.ca
